HR Business Systems Manager

Afzal Khan

Director, HR Technology

Shane is Associate Director (Staff Services) in the Office of Human Resource Management at Griffith University.

His role involves the day to day leadership and management of approximately 40 staff within three key service delivery teams (Appointment Services, Payroll Services and AskHR Services) responsible for the University's recruitment, selection and appointment activities, staff benefits and payroll functions, "AskHR" advisory service, and HR information systems, projects, and support.

Shane holds a Masters of Human Resource Management, a Bachelor of Business (HRM), and an Associate Diploma of Management (Information Technology) plus over 20 years experience in the HR profession in the tertiary education sector.

Shane has held both generalist and specialist HR positions throughout his career, and is currently HR Track Chair for the Australia and New Zealand Higher Education User Group (HEUG).

Griffith University is a highly ranked university with an international outlook and a commitment to the community.

Established in 1971 Griffith University was created to be a new kind of university in Australia – one with students at its core, teaching progressive degrees across a range of disciplines, focused on sustainability and deeply connected to the Asia-Pacific region.

Griffith has flourished into a comprehensive, research-intensive university, ranking in the top 3% of universities worldwide, teaching in all study areas across five campuses (Brisbane, Gold Coast, Logan, Nathan and Mt Gravatt) and spanning three cities in South East Queensland.

Griffith's vision is to be one of the most influential universities in Australia and the Asia-Pacific region.
